I came to Europe ten years ago with a scholarship to study Playwriting and Directing of Theater. I lived in London for a while but I ended up based in Spain, where I started to work to a Swiss company of Educational Tours some months a year. During spring and summer I travel with North American high-school students around Europe, sharing with them my knowledge in ... History (I am undergr in History and Art), Culture, Language etc. In other way to put it, I am a half Italian, half Brazilia who lives in Spain and work with North America around seven countries of west Europe. Yes, quite a mix. During these tours, in parallel of my product and education role I gave myself a secret mission to open the minds of these teenage to a new way of thinking

In autumn and winter is when I work in my theater and cinema projects and I process all the stories and character that I had the chance to live with along the trips.

So, to answer the question what I am passionate about: to connect people and places. How these two items can find one million forms of expression and they are always original and singular but at once archaic and essential connect all of us through some principle that are common to the human and yet make us unique individuals. For me, the most important one.

over the power of exchange (inter) Energy, love, knowledge, information, goods? the conscience of this fluxus is what makes us humans

Por otro lado, y eso me parece lo más grave, la presencia masiva de las redes sociales hace que la mayoría de los viajeros no tenga una relación directa con los lugares que visita, sino que esta relación se da a través de las cámaras digitales. Una visita a París sin una foto con la tour Eiffel no es una visita a París! En lugar de disfrutar de la experiencia de encontrarse delante de un monumento o obra de arte o paisaje natural, el observador recibe mediación por la cámara. Las imágenes comparadas legítimamente la experiencia tanto como la ausencia de imágenes la deshabilita.

[illegible]

Por lo tanto, si me fuera dada la oportunidad de compartir mis ideas yo advoca por una nueva (o vieja, como defende Lin Yutang) manera de viajar, o mismo de relacion con los lugares de siempre buscando el equilibrio entre imagen y realidad (Me siento cómoda hablando tanto en Inglés como en Español (y por supuesto Portugu

The list is long, but just as an example we went from Brazil to Canada by car, observed the midnight sun in Norway and slept in tents in Africa. Not only did I discover completely new places and met different cultures, but also I realized that my two biggest passions in life are travelling and continuous learning.

One of the kids caught my attention. It was a girl who didn't talk much; she was very shy and rarely interacted with other kids. I wanted to make a difference in her life so I began encouraging her to play with the other kids, talking to her during the breaks, and playing a lot of basketball. At the end of the program I knew that she was more self-confident and was trying hard to be part of the group. Giving my time and knowledge to help these kids was a life changing experience that I think it is worth spreading.

But probably it's a very easy topic... A group of friends (and me) are working in a small and cheap (and libre) gyro-plane for agricultural purpose and probably it would be more interesting to show how this open design models can help develop of depressed areas and generate small industries. And they are not only useful for development purposes.

purpose but for changing our whole way of seeing the industry, our neighbors and our environment.

It's an opportunity to look for an interesting way to go, discarding many others and creating my own path. And it will be probably a time for fun and for thinking and a place to break all the frontiers and prejudice a place where that stuff doesn't matters and the only thing you can see is other human beings.

Mi pasión es la música y el arte en general así como la tecnología con todo lo que aporta a nivel social. Estoy ahora mismo terminando de grabar el primer álbum con mi banda, que debería de ver la luz a primeros de octubre. El mundo que me rodea me preocupa mucho y soy bastante inquieto en el "como y por donde empieza el cambio social que debe de ocurrir cuantos antes. Este primer disco, con sus letras y música, será un reflejo del malestar por la situación actual del mundo en el cual me encuentro pero con el optimismo de que un mundo mejor es posible, empezando por el cambio personal.

First of all, stories. They have taken up a huge amount of my life - coming up with them, telling them, reading them and figuring out what their power over us is about. My favourite part of the Olympics opening ceremony recently was where the children were reading under the bedcovers, as it reminded me of the magic of the first stories that I read by myself, but also made me appreciate the genius of the writers who created them. At work, and in our social lives, the temptation is to be surrounded by people who you get on with, but I think that this is a huge mistake. Despite knowing that my friends, family and colleagues were all people of fundamentally good character, I still spent a lot of time feeling intensely irritated by them. But the realisation that they had a different way of seeing things and that I could learn from them was lifechanging. I think that three things have contributed to this understanding. Firstly, as someone who dislikes routine and structure, I eventually found myself enjoying the benefits of the seemingly pointless systems and processes that my manager insisted that I	""	"To hear some new ideas from people in a completely different field to me, hopefully. On equality, I was (quite rightly) brought up to consider myself equal to boys, and so often found myself overwhelmed by frustration when treated differently - both by men and women. What I'm enjoying hugely today is to see that, women are finally starting to win proper equality - to be seen as no worse than men, but no better, either. Subsequently, our relationship improved immeasurably and we achieved a huge amount together, despite us both being the kind of people that the other would avoid like the plague in a social situation. The second discovery that helped me understand all of this was Stephen Covey's Seven Habits of Highly Effective People. I think that Covey is someone who we should still be reading in 1,000 years and despite my love of fiction would say that he is the writer who has most affected me. I've been working in turbulent fluids for seven years now. It is one of the most complex problems mankind has ever tried to solve. We started four centuries ago and we're still trying to understand how it works. To solve this kind of problem you need hard work and inspiration. Complex is basically everywhere, therefore you can get new ideas from almost anything. The

After obtaining a degree in Communication from Universidad Complutense de Madrid, my natural inclination towards focusing on the more positive aspects of life has led me to become active in social media. My passion for nature and ideas has propelled me through over 10 years of diverse nature and social awareness activities. I collaborate intensively with Oceanic Sostenible in the creation of the first

Marine Natural Micro-Reserve in Tenerife, Spain and I am a member of the International League of conservation writers. Attending WILD 9 in Mexico was one of the best experiences in my life! Thank you WILD! In my spare time I love scuba diving, trekking and sharing ideas.

At first, their percept and experie of the typical visitor is one of judgem and a lack of underst howeve my hour and a half evolved from a brief French lesson to an interest of the many wonder and beautie of life and the world. Our talk meant someth to these girls, it meant a look into the outside world, it meant hope, it meant a future-- that was seen as impossible to two young girls from Pico Union, Los Angeles, who had never seen the ocean (even though it was 20 minutes away) and did not know what something as popular as the Super Bowl was. This window of excitement was evident and 1.5 hours could not encapsulate the levels of emotion that were experienced within one visit. When the guard shouted

" visitors,
your time is up" I was

I highly enjoy conversing and sharing experiences with people from different backgrounds and cultures, and always make the most of every activity I pursue.	"I would talk about an idea I have and would like to carry out, aimed at kids aged 4-8. I believe education is an area of concern for many of us, and the fact that it is not adapted to the modern day world is quite worrying. It would be an entrepreneurial workshop where kids would naturally adopt abilities like public speaking, thinking outside of the box, strategy, etc. My case study for this idea has been focussed on three of my nephews."	"I expect to grow personally and professionally to learn through other people's experience and knowledge and digest all the information I can! "

At the event, I heard about great ideas, amazing histories, and also met lots of interesting people from everywhere. Among them were the organizers of some TEDx in Spain and they asked me how come I was not volunteering at TEDx so I started to ask myself the same question and that's why I'm contacting you. I'd like to be part of the TEDx team and help to

great
events in the future.

If you are looking for volunteer for this year's events, please let me know and we can discuss your needs and my skills but basically I can say that I have some IT skills and I'm willing to help.

My number is 661 000 429.

I look forward to hearing back from you!
